Update from the New Build Committee (NBC)

Our committee was asked to develop a plan and pricing for the possible new build. This would be presented to the congregation when it is completed and then the congregation would make the decision to build or not. We have been working towards that goal and have used the same process that Covenant Bay Bible Camp used. Our hope was to get a broad selection of companies to offer bids, so as to increase our options and choices.

We have just received the bids, which are not firm or detailed at this point. We are beginning to look at these proposals closely and will be choosing one or more companies to talk with, to further develop these plans and costs. After more comparing, we will choose the ones we want to work with.

The committee is also looking into the availability of the neighbouring land and determining a price to also present to the church at the same time.

We expect this process to take two months or more. If you have any questions or if you would like to talk more about this, please see one of the members of the New Build Committee.

Thank you!
