We are gearing up for a busy fall at Commons. Our annual Journal Project, which outlines our teaching schedule for the next 12 months, has just arrived in the offices and we are preparing for our annual Team Night where we bring together over 200 volunteers to say thanks for all the work they are about to put in as we head into the fall season. This year we will be running with 5 services every Sunday across two parishes and so we'll be looking to add even more volunteers to our teams. The fall is always an important season for us to get new people connected and invested in what's happening across Commons.

As well this fall, we have another refugee family arriving in Canada with plans under way for two more families after that in the next twelve months. We will be helping them establish a new life here in Calgary by providing their living expenses for the first year as well as supporting them with school enrolment, medical and dental appointments, budgeting, taxes, and tutoring.

During the height of the Syrian crisis, our volunteers also supported a number of other families who arrived in Calgary without all of the needed practical support and advocacy. We continue to journey with some of these more vulnerable families, while leading them towards independence.

Finally, we have brought some new staff in to the team here in Calgary. Yelena Pakhomova joins us oversea our Home Groups and off-Sunday gathering opportunities, and Larissa Amour has joined us to work with Students. We're excited for the voices these women bring to the team.

Please pray for our continued capacity to invite new people into the story of Jesus and to engage them in the local life of Christ in the neighbourhoods they inhabit.
